Applicability: All Global Employees and Data Processors

1. Commitment to Data Privacy and Regulatory Adherence

Quantic Global Enterprises is committed to safeguarding the privacy rights of our employees, customers, prospective applicants, and commercial partners. This policy enforces compliance with international data privacy laws, including the European Union General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), the UK Data Protection Act, and the California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA).

2. Employee Personnel Data Processing

2.1 Lawful Basis and Purpose Limitation

The company collects and processes personal employee data strictly for legitimate employment administration purposes, including payroll disbursement, tax statutory withholding, benefits administration, performance evaluation, and workplace health and safety. Personal data will not be processed for incompatible secondary purposes without informed consent.

2.2 Categories of Employee Data Maintained

Personnel files maintain the following data classes:

- Identification Records: Legal name, employee ID, residential address, telephone number, emergency contacts, government tax identification numbers (SSN/SIN).
- Employment Records: Role title, salary history, manager relationships, performance review ratings, attendance records, and PTO logs.
- Benefits Data: Health plan enrollment elections, beneficiary designations, retirement plan contribution percentages.

3. Data Subject Rights (GDPR & CCPA)

3.1 Right of Access and Data Portability

Employees have the right to request a complete copy of their personnel file and electronic data records by submitting a Data Subject Access Request (DSAR) to privacy@quantic-global.internal. The Data Protection Office will fulfill DSAR requests within thirty (30) calendar days free of charge.

3.2 Right to Rectification and Erasure

- Rectification: Employees may update or correct inaccurate biographical, bank account, or address details at any time through the HR Self-Service Portal.
- Erasure: Statutory employment records (tax filings, payroll logs) are retained for mandatory legal retention periods (typically seven years post-separation). Non-statutory subjective feedback data will be securely shredded upon employee request following separation where permissible.

4. Cross-Border Data Transfers and Third-Party Sub-Processors

All cross-border transfers of employee personal data between enterprise subsidiaries (e.g. EU to US) are governed by EU Standard Contractual Clauses (SCCs) and binding corporate rules. All third-party software-as-a-service (SaaS) HR platforms undergo rigorous annual SOC 2 Type II and ISO 27001 data protection audits before being granted API connectivity.
